82 Million Passionate Voters The One Tour That Can Reach Them

What is the Campaign Across America?

We truly believe that informed voters create a better government. They're out there—the more than 80 million American voters who care. Who want their voices to be heard. Who want someone to trust.

With the Vote iQ Campaign Across America, a unique nationwide tour of engagement, we will reach them—from grassroots to the blogosphere.

Our campaign mission is to listen—not just hear—the voices of politically interested citizens. To encourage their desire to get involved in the positives of politics. Finally, to offer Vote iQ as a resource for all of this and more. From the early spring thru the November 2010 elections, Jason will be hitting the road on behalf of Vote iQ, traveling light as he hits major markets and local communities in battleground states from coast to coast. His goal is to understand politics at a grassroots level, and to search for a new American community in which to be politically active. The campaign's progress will be tracked and documented at every step via Vote iQ. As citizens across the country educate Jason on the political pulse of America in their communities, they'll also be reaching the entire nation. Viewers can follow along through video blogging, tweets, and other media from Vote iQ.
